

- It is the sub-interface of Collection available from JDK 1.5.
- It does not work on the basis of index, actually it uses hashing algorithm technique.
- It does not accept duplicate elements, here our best friend is equals() method which will not accept duplicate objects, if these objects are identical.
- It supports all the methods of Collection interface as well as few more methods are added from java.util.
- It cannot work with null interface.